Numbers are formatted using patterns, like `"#,###.00"`. For example, the pattern `"#,###.00"` when used to format the number 12345.678 could result in "12'345,67". That would happen if the grouping separator for your language is an apostrophe ('), and the decimal separator is a comma (,). Also see Number Symbols.

12 Jun 2015 . Historically, press releases closed with a "###" or "-30-". For wire systems, these symbols indicated to the newsroom that the text of the release was over. PR Newswire's systems were no different – we used to signify the end of a transmission with "-0-". Most readers today see a press release's boilerplate.

19 Aug 2016 . Often, this was "###." There were others, but this is the one most press release writers learned in school. Of course in today's world there's no reason to include it – except that some journalists and scanner software look for this. I know for me, a press release doesn't look "complete" unless those three little.

–30– has been traditionally used by journalists in North America to indicate the end of a story. It is commonly found at the end of a press release. There are many theories about how the usage came into being, e.g. from that number's use in the 92 Code of telegraphic shorthand to signify the end of a transmission in the.
